

Creating an Effective Diocesan Strategy for Addressing Pornography

The efforts needed to address the many facets of the problem of pornography can seem overwhelming, and most dioceses do not have the resources necessary to effectively provide the kind of advocacy, prevention, and healing needed to make even a satisfactory dent in the problem.

The Archdiocese of New Orleans has begun implementing a strategy to effectively respond to the U.S. bishops call to action in Create in Me a Clean Heart that includes taking advantage of cutting edge international resources including a partnership with Covenant Eyes and their affiliates. This includes providing parishes, schools, parents, clergy, and the public with the resources necessary to understand the nature of pornography and human sexuality, to protect and serve the children in their care, and to provide healing and support for those who have been affected. Each piece of this strategy has been specifically designed to be duplicated or rebranded by other dioceses with ease. David Dawson from the Archdiocese of New Orleans will present the details of this strategy and keys to effective implementation.

David Dawson, Jr. has been married to Kate for eleven years, and they have seven beautiful children. David works as the Director of the Office of Marriage and Family Life for the Archdiocese of New Orleans and speaks internationally with a focus on faith within marriage. The Archdiocese's Create a Clean Heart committee in partnership with Covenant Eyes has helped create and pilot a new, substantial diocesan and parish approach to effectively addressing the issue of pornography.
